Proposed Legislation On Prairie Farm Debt Is Held Insufficient

By JAMES MCCOOK

OTTAWA, July 20.—(CP)—A government bill to facilitate arrangements between insolvent farmers and their creditors was held insufficient by western opposition members speaking yesterday in the House of Commons. The house spent its morning and afternoon sittings in discussion of the bill which received second reading.

Consideration of the bill occupied the house for nearly two hours of the evening session, with general discussion on the first of 43 sections in the measure.

Its purpose is to rescind the 1934 Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act which applies to Alberta and Saskatchewan and replace it with debt-adjustment provisions applying also to Manitoba.

It requires the limiting date of May 1, 1935, but provides that if two-thirds of a farmer's debts are incurred before that date an adjustment of all his debts may be made.

Cases where a farmer made a composition of debt prior to Jan. 1, 1935, may be reopened and the two parties may make new arrangements between farmers and their creditors.

Members critical of the bill, saying the western farmer required more adequate protection in view of his debt difficulties.

Progressive Conservative, C.C.F. and New Democracy members all were critical of the bill, saying the western farmer required more adequate protection in view of his debt difficulties.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King said the government would take care to see the bill was not hurriedly passed.

He said the bill was not hurriedly passed and that it was a measure of the government's intention to deal with the problem of the farmer's debt.

LONDON, July 20.—(BUP)—A special Russian communiqué to night reported the capture of Orel, a strongly fortified locality north of Orel and advanced from it to occupy a number of enemy strongholds.

The Germans had been launching strong counter-attacks from the locality which the Soviet forces were repulsing.

After "annihilating" his German forces the Russians drove forward to seize several additional strong points which they held in the face of Nazi counter-blasts.

Refuse Track: Race Meeting Is Cancelled

Permitting has been refused by Royal Canadian Air Force authorities for the holding of the Edmonton Exhibition Association of a 10-day race meeting at the exhibition grounds. As a result the proposed meeting has been cancelled.

The announcement of the refusal to grant permission came from Calgary headquarters of the R.C.A.F. and was transmitted to the Edmonton Exhibition Association manager by the officer commanding No. 3 'M' Depot R.C.A.F.

The communication declining permission was short and terse, stating that "have ruled that no racing can now be held in Edmonton." It was definitely made clear that the racing was not to be held in Edmonton for the war's duration as regulations were completely revised recently between the Dominion government and the exhibition association to deal with the war situation.

The Bulletin's SPORT SHOW by Hal Dean

ONLY some very pleasant memories along with the aftermath of a perfectly potent sunburn and a few, very few snaps—if you don't believe films are really scarce. Just try to acquire an extra copy now all that remain of extremely enjoyable holiday sports in the Buffalo-Lake Louise area. And we also say, thanks to Jack DeLong, in whose capable hands this corner has been for the past two weeks.

Could be, of course, that mountain fruit are well aware that in those times only amateurs in the art which Jack Walton helped make famous, frequent their camps. Nevertheless, while it doesn't require any gargantuan effort to catch fleeting glimpses of them, actual hooking turns out to be something entirely different. And, as, and to relate a beautiful specimen of rainbow which tasted very truly that fish of any species whatever, do or ever did thrive in the many picturesque streams and lakes in that famous playground of the Rockies.

MRS. MUIR SHOTS ACE
ALTHOUGH evidence continues to mount almost daily of being regarded in many quarters as a former, reserved to members of the sterner sex, it nevertheless comes as a surprise to learn that one of the realms of sport, hitherto considered as the domain of "mere man" has also been invaded.

Mrs. Roberts Muir, a member of the Highlands Golf Club for several years, made a hole-in-one the other day, July 15, to be exact. Using a No. 10 on the ninth hole, she shot on the ninth hole on the first nine, the first of the day.

While three holes-in-one have previously been reported from golf clubs this season, it is very seldom that a woman anywhere has successfully shot a hole-in-one. The accomplishment of Mrs. Muir is the first of its kind in the history of the game.

Annual Pilgrimage
DODGERS DEFEAT WHITE SOX

In Major Loop Exhibition
COOPERSTOWN, N. Y., July 20.—(AP)—The Major League made their annual pilgrimage Monday to Doubleday Field; site of the original baseball diamond laid out in 1839 by Amner Doubleday, and Brooklyn Dodgers, representing the National League, defeated Chicago White Sox of the American League 7-5 in an exhibition game before 4,000 spectators.

At Chicago's turn were made off Fred Fitzgibbon in the first inning as Thurman Tucker and Guy Curtright singled, Luke Appling and Johnny Kauter doubled and Joe Kuhel hit a home run. Afterward the White Sox made only three hits of 800 feet.

Rube Minton, who went to the mound in the fourth and finished the game.

The White Sox, Edgar Smith, who today was expected to lead the team, was out of the game in the fourth inning, and after the pitching, over for Chicago and the White Sox, the game was tied in a second-inning slugging for four runs. Dugan Camillo homered to lead the only and Mickey Vernon, Bobby Bragan, Kalamandis and Albie Gussup added doubles.

The more runs put the Dodgers ahead in the fifth when Camillo, who had hit a home run in the first, was hit by a double and a home run.

White Sox made one hit in the sixth and one in the seventh, and an error by catcher. Chicago (A.L.) 300 000 000-5-11; Brooklyn (N.L.) 000 000 000-7-5.

Beau Jack Stops Hutchinson in 6 Rounds

McCready Takes Qualifying Round Amateur Tourney
Big Leagues Had a Hurling Coveleskie For 20 Years

Will Meet Montgomery On Sept. 10

PHILADELPHIA, July 20.—(AP)—Beau Jack has chances of getting another chance at the world lightweight championship—this time with Johnny Hutchinson, and the dice came up seven. The former shoe shine boy climbed all over the Philadelphia "trial" horse, Johnny Hutchinson, and stopped him in six rounds of a 10-round in Shibe Park. Jack weighed 135½; Hutchinson, 131½.

In a bristling battle, Jack was in trouble only twice as he cut both of his veteran Philadelphia opponents and bludgeoned his face until it dripped crimson before Referee Ike Kutter stopped the proceedings at 2:01 of the sixth heat.

There were no knockouts as Jack overcame Hutchinson in the fourth round, but the latter's face was so badly hurt that he was unable to continue. Jack's victory was a surprise to many who had expected Hutchinson to win.

At the final Associated Press press conference, Jack said he was going to fight Hutchinson again in September. He said he was going to fight him in Philadelphia or New York.

At the final Associated Press press conference, Jack said he was going to fight Hutchinson again in September. He said he was going to fight him in Philadelphia or New York.

NEW YORK, July 20.—Stanley came in as Harry bowed out. The big league baseball had a pitching Coveleskie for 20 years. Southpaw Harry gained early fame as the Giant Killer, but the right-handed Stanley took them all. Stanley had more stuff than Harry, although the latter was good enough to win 23 while losing 10 for Detroit to lead the American League in 1916.

Stanley had a mania for fishing. He was especially during the spring training period. Once when the Cleveland Indians trained at Lakeland, Fla., Coveleskie and his roommate did not once bathe out of the clubhouse at the park. Cove kept the hotel room bathtub full of live minnows for Harry. He always rose at 6 and went to the fishing grounds. Some of the minnows grew as large as trout by the time they broke camp.

In 1921 the Cleveland club trained in Florida. One day, the Sprague took the team to the home of Hubbard down the road a piece. Coveleskie, who was then the club's pitcher, Jack Sewell had come up the year before to lead Ray Raps, a pitcher who had been in the Cleveland club for 10 years. Coveleskie took a road trip, and Sewell took a road trip. Sewell took a road trip, and Coveleskie took a road trip.

"Well, you're going to learn now," said Coveleskie. And with that he leaped over the fence and ran back to the house. Sewell, who was then a pitcher, was so surprised that he did not know what to do. He was so surprised that he did not know what to do.

The Sprague believed Coveleskie was through when he traded him to Washington in the winter of '24, but the Polo's reply was to lead American League pitchers with 20 and 5 and in effectiveness with 24.5.

Only Christy Mathewson's three shutouts for the Giants against the Athletics in 1905 equaled Coveleskie's World Series performance at Brooklyn in 20. He pitched three, he is so game permitted more than five hits or one run.

Coveleskie lost 25 games in the World Series of 23 and 62, as the Pittsburgh Pirates' Washington.

Stanley won 21, lost 149 games in the American League. I saw Stanley pitch in an old game in Cleveland in 1916. He was a lot different than he did 20 years before, save that he was a lot more, but managed to get away with his games.

Stanley Coveleskie was a one-man pitching staff.

Back Again

BULLETIN

For Both Boys and Girls
City to Sponsor Series Athletic Standard Tests

PHILADELPHIA, July 20.—The city is sponsoring a series of athletic standard tests open to all boys and girls in Edmontown over 10 lbs. in weight. It was announced yesterday by W. T. Tait, sports supervisor.

These tests will be carried out with the cooperation of the Y.M.C.A. and the Y.W.C.A. and the Provincial Normal School, on dates to be announced later.

There are four divisions for both boys and girls—junior, junior, intermediate and senior, with five events for each competition.

In each division there are three grades. A competitor starts in the "C" grade, which should be well within the reach of the average boy or girl. If successful in the "C" grade the competitor may go on to the "B" grade, which will be a little more difficult, and finally to the "A" grade, which can only be won by a very fine effort.

All the children on the South side will compete at the South side Athletic Club. The North side children will compete at the Clark Athletic Club.

A competitor who is to be bringing a statement from his parents verifying his weight and then on the basis of his weight and age will be placed in one of the three divisions. The first test will be for boys and girls under 10 lbs. in weight.

Sunday Curfew Interfere

By JUDSON BAILEY

NEW YORK, July 20.—(AP)—There are no fewer than four "suspended games" in the National League which must be played to completion at some future date. Two of them already have been entered in the standings as won and lost for the teams involved, the other two have not.

Sunday Pennsylvania's Sunday curfew halted the second game of a doubleheader at Pittsburgh after seven innings with St. Louis Cardinals leading 6-5.

Under ordinary baseball rules this would have been a victory for the Cardinals, but the curfew ceased. But the National League passed an "anti-suspension" rule last winter which said that contests halted before the end of nine innings because of curfew must later be played to completion.

Not instead of a victory for the Cardinals, earlier in the day had whipped the Pirates 7-4 for the Cardinals' 12th triumph, the game being entered as a win for the Pirates and a loss for the Cardinals.
The suspended game will be played again on Sept. 1, the date agreed upon for this occasion.

At Boston the Massachusetts
Sunday curfew halted the second contest between the Braves and Brooklyn Dodgers in the midst of a Boston rally in the sixth inning with the count at 4-4. Play will be resumed at an unspecified late date.

The other two games that must be completed were "suspended" as the result of protests after they preliminarily had been entered and already had been entered in the standings. League president Tommy L. Ladd said that the games should remain in the standings until such time as they needed to be reversed after they are completed.

At St. Louis the Cardinals
Sunday curfew halted the second contest between the Cardinals and Pirates in the sixth inning with the count at 4-4. Play will be

At a quiet wedding, attended by family and friends, the couple exchanged vows. The bride wore a traditional white gown, and the groom wore a tuxedo. The ceremony was officiated by a priest, and the couple was pronounced man and wife. The reception was held at a local restaurant, where guests enjoyed a delicious meal and dancing. The bride and groom were the center of attention, and everyone wished them a happy life together.

In hot weather it is more than ever important to be sure war workers get the foods they need.

Hot weather appetites need tempting, and when it is a question of keeping up the health and strength of one of our nation's war workers it is our job to tempt that the appetite it tempted . . . and tempted by the right kinds of foods.

Premier Ernest Manning Stresses Need Realistic Attitude on Agriculture

The problem of farm debts in Alberta, and the security of land tenure, was topic of an address delivered in Edmonton Monday by Premier Ernest C. Manning. It was the third in a series which deals with provincial government affairs.

On the question of farm debts and security of land tenure, there has been a tendency in the past to treat it as a farmer's problem, and not as a provincial problem, which concerns everyone. Before we can begin to get down to any kind of a practical solution, we must first have a realistic attitude towards agriculture," he said.

Mr. Manning reviewed the legislative action which Alberta had taken on farm debt problems, and action taken by the governments of the three prairie provinces after final disallowance of farm debt legislation of all three provinces.

He complete address follows: "I want to make an appeal to every farm-minded person who, in the past, may have been influenced by prejudiced propaganda regarding Social Credit. All I ask is this: Put out what Social Credit really means to you and to your country. When you have this definite information, then form your own opinion with no prejudice. I shall not be satisfied to leave it to your judgment."

POPULAR PASTIME

I know it has been a popular pastime for some years in the past to indulge in vulgar abuse in an attempt to discuss Social Credit as something too fantastic to bear consideration. If this were the case would such men as Mr. Manning, Mr. Solly, the eminent physician with a wide reputation, the late Professor Living, professor of Economics at Sydney (Australia), the Earl of Tankerville, the Earl of Strathmore, and other outstanding position and eminence, promote a belief in Social Credit principles?

But I do not ask you to accept somebody else's view. Investigate it for yourselves—and form your own opinion. Surely that is a reasonable request.

Now let us turn to our subject for this evening. I would like to discuss an aspect of agriculture to which the government has given and continues to give great consideration because of its dominating importance. I refer to the problem of farm debts and the security of land tenure.

While this is very naturally a matter which concerns all farmers, very vitally, I wish to stress the fact that it also concerns everybody else—professional and business men, workers in industry, public servants and all other citizens.

MISUNDERSTANDING

I feel that in the past there has been a great deal of misunderstanding on this question of farm debts and security of land tenure. There has been a tendency to treat it as a farmer's problem and not as a problem concerning everybody else. I believe that we can begin to get down to any kind of a practical solution, we must first have a realistic attitude towards agriculture.

In the first place we must recognize the fact that the foundation of an economic structure is agriculture and the system of land tenure which underlies it is developed.

It is impossible to have a just and prosperous country unless justice, stability and prosperity are accorded to agriculture. This is not theory, it is a fact which has been proved by the experience of history down the ages. But it is true here in Alberta that in many other parts of Canada. Here in our province the principle of the land tenure is developed.

Farewell Wave For The WAACS

Truckload of soldiers at San Angelo, Tex., bombardier school head for combat duty at WAACS for take over their old jobs.

That was before the present Alberta government was first elected in 1935 with a definite mandate to afford more effective protection for our farmers. With our knowledge of the fraudulent nature of the WAACS, we could not have allowed the government to be able to carry out its mandate in this sphere—at the same time doing its best to ensure that such legislation could not be passed by the federal government or by the provincial government.

Debt Act after Debt Act passed by the provincial legislature of Alberta was attacked by the federal government. After act after act was either disallowed by the federal government or declared ultra vires by the courts, the reasons for their annulment were analyzed by some of the best legal minds and the government brought forward new legislation to replace the acts rendered inoperative. But these, in turn, were attacked with equal success, by the mortgage companies.

And may I point out that Alberta alone had been singled for this offensive action by these concerns. After the outbreak of the war the attack was intensified.

Then came the final attempt to repeal the last law, the right of action to dispossess defaulters. The judgment obtained had the effect of making illegal all similar legislation in Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

Immediately the Alberta government took the lead in bringing to the government and farmers' organizations of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and our own province. A united and unanimous request was made to Ottawa to pass legislation to give farmers the necessary protection from default dispossession. The mortgage and other lending corporations, and to provide for the issue of equitable settlement of farm debts.

Remember, the war had been in progress for a year and a half. The port of agriculture as an essential war industry was recognized. Farmers were being urged to produce more and more. Yet farmers were being dispossessed of their property and their land.

That is the situation. Surely this matter constitutes a problem which should concern everyone of us very deeply.

First, it should concern us because if there is anything we can do to prevent the loss of our farms, we should do it. It is the only way to ensure the security of our land.

Secondly, it concerns us all on grounds of equity and justice. Those who have worked the land for years should not be dispossessed of it.

Thirdly, it concerns us vitally because we can solve the problems of agriculture, as will be seen in the deal effectively with any of the other problems in the post-war period. The reconstruction of the war economy is essential as ready we have received a representation from the farmers' organizations in the form of the following resolution: I quote—

Rapid Production Of Synthetic Tires In U.S. Predicted

LOS ANGELES, July 26.—(AP)—F. B. Davis, Jr., board chairman of the United States Rubber Company, predicted yesterday that by the end of 1944 American production of synthetic automobile passenger tires will have reached the rate of one every second.

However, rationing still will be necessary, even if military needs remain static, he stated during an interview.

As in the post-war possibilities of synthetic he said, regarding the availability of natural rubber, the synthetic industry will be an important one.

CHAPTER XII

I INCOGNITO rose, caught and sad, died his camel, was given provisions, a well-filled leather water bottle, a sum of money and a small Arab companion.

His destination, of course, remained the same: the jungle beyond Lake Tzad. But now he was going to get there since, doubtless, the road to Feh Zudoom, where the trail split, was being watched. He asked Rashid, who pointed to where the moon pointed the distant range of hills with cream and silver.

"Skip the mountains here," he said, "but not too close. Five days through the desert—and weary, weary the way. I know. For once, with a cough, I had to take refuge there in the matter of a blood feud. No caravan trails there, nor a single oasis. So drink sparingly of your water, and ride east, straight east, nor deviate from your course."

On the sixth day, he would see the black felt tents of the Beni Ri tribe of Bedawins. But he should stay away from them, hiding in the daytime and traveling only at night when he got there.

"The jungle really? It does not know them. I am of the desert. But it is your only way."

With stilled Muslim courtesy he expressed his gratitude.

"Say the Lord Allah the One and your great income of cattle! And he mounted and was off into the night, while far off, the drums whistled again.

When later, friends asked him for the details of his fantastic lonely journey, he would shake his head rather hesitantly, would explain that he hadn't gone out as an explorer; to gather a mass of material to work into a thrilling travel book. He would explain that it was long since he discovered the land he loved and which he had once thought would be all archaic and elephants and gold to be liberally sprinkled with the crass, stinking realism of dirt and disease, of superstitions and cruelties unspoken, of blackwater fever and festering wounds and fifty varieties of crawling and flying horrors; explain that it was long since the remembered lure of the sluggish desert with its starchy, golden sap, and the primitive jungle with its matter, poisonous corruption had been forced in to give way when it was a matter of military routine of duties agreeable and disagreeable.

And now, with war moving the threat of its crumpling chariot throughout the length and breadth of Africa, nor east, south, west, he had gone out in the straight line of line of duty—in find a man, one man, and kill him.

No romance to that, was there?

At the time, his sufferings were terrible. Then, early on the fifth day, he saw the black felt tents of the Beni Ri tribe of Bedawins. But he should stay away from them, hiding in the daytime and traveling only at night when he got there.

"The jungle really? It does not know them. I am of the desert. But it is your only way."

With stilled Muslim courtesy he expressed his gratitude.

"Say the Lord Allah the One and your great income of cattle! And he mounted and was off into the night, while far off, the drums whistled again.

When later, friends asked him for the details of his fantastic lonely journey, he would shake his head rather hesitantly, would explain that he hadn't gone out as an

his last and then, without warning, there was the dry snick of a breechbolt, a yellow snarl of flame, and—this time it had struck, and the body flattened out in the bushes, with the dead of a bullet splintering a tree a hair's breadth from his head.

The very next second, he heard loud laughter; heard an answer drifting from the bush, also in English, although with a heavy, guttural accent.

"A schab—by my own and my mother's honor! And I had thought it was some damned desert rat of a Bedawin!"

Street Railway Workers Asking Improvements

patronage could be expected in the fall and winter months, he added.

The speed-up, Mr. Ferrier stated, permitted the taking of nine cars out of service for repair. If the slow schedule were continued, he said, it would allow only four cars to come out of service.

Manpower shortage, holidays and shortage of equipment for repairs, he said, were factors also in the speed-up.

Joseph Cherrington, president of the street railway union, said in reply that the speed-up was injurious to the street cars, and that it would not be possible to have them serviceable after the winter.

RAPS RECKLESSNESS

Mr. Cherrington complained about the recklessness of the motorist.

He said that there are irresponsible boys driving trucks and cars today that are causing very dangerous situations for operators of street cars.

Mr. Cherrington stated that the operation of motor cars and trucks in this city was a disgrace, while Aid. Ogilvie said he had witnessed several cases of dangerous driving where in his opinion a prosecution should have been made.

He asked if motormen reported such cases, and also if it was the practice of the department to pay wages to men called to give evidence in dangerous driving cases preferred by motormen.

Mr. Ferrier said that time was not paid the men while attending court, and Aid. Ogilvie expressed the opinion that they should be reimbursed for any time lost while in court. He did not make any formal motion on this matter, however.

URGES PROSECUTIONS

He said that motormen should not hesitate to report all cases of dangerous driving by motormen, and the department should, through the police department, press any such charges where evidence was available.

A few prosecutions, with convictions, he said, would have a very beneficial effect on this dangerous driving, he added.

Other operators complained of the speed-up schedule, but their complaints were in the opinion of the committee members, matters of management, and should be dealt with by the commissioners.

Commissioner R. J. Gibb told the committee members that consideration was being given to the return to the two-man street car system, and added that if present plans are carried through it is possible that the two-man cars will be put into operation in September. Other expedients to meet the traffic problem were also under consideration, he said.

Two Fliers Killed: 'Chutes Save Two As Planes Collide

LONDON, Ont., July 20.—(CP)—Two fliers were killed and two others parachuted to safety last night when two R.C.A.F. planes from No. 14 Service Flying Training school, Asmer, crashed in mid-air near Horvillat, 14 miles southeast of London, and plunged to earth.

According to witnesses, one of the planes caught fire in the collision and fell to the ground in flames, carrying both its occupants to death.

Newsclips have been notified and names of the airmen will be released later.

Compulsory Labor In U.S. Possibility

WASHINGTON, July 20.—(AP)—Paul V. McNutt, war manpower commissioner for the United States, yesterday he would have a compulsory labor draft bill ready "if and when it seems necessary and the administration is ready to press for national service."

There have been hints that the government is giving renewed consideration to asking such legislation after Congress reconvenes in September.
